

abstract

GEOMETRY AND MATERIALS SEMINAR

Topic:

Speaker:

Affiliation:

Date:

Time/Room:

Liquid crystals form layered structures, known as smectics. Modeling these structures as minimal surfaces gives a class of trial solutions from which we can estimate ground state energetics. In order to control the boundary conditions, or topology, we construct surfaces based upon singly- and doubly-periodic functions.